JOTTINGS.

The snow yesterday made the busy bee hive him to his hole.

Ten more carloads of railroad iron went west this morning.

An Indian poker game attracted quite a crowd on the Plaza this morning.

Mr. Well to-day received from Cleveland a large lot of calico wrappers and linen dusters.

Thos. E. Teppett is prepared to prepare to do all kinds of painting, gilding, etc. See 50-cent column.

There were some fears last night that a frost would fall and injure the fruit crop, but fortunately none fell.

The grand jury have been in session pretty much all day to-day. It is not known how soon they will report.

Mrs. Temple has reopened in the building just vacated by Miss Harney on Second street, with a full assortment of ladies' fancy goods. Call and see her.

The card of James A. Scott appears in another column of this issue. Mr. S. is an experienced workman and builders will consult their own interest if they submit their plans to him.

An Improvement.

The Reno Gazette, says the Austin Roelle, has made an improvement on the usual manner of making mining reports. Accompanying a detailed description of the Golden Fleec mine, located north of Reno, is printed a map of all the underground workings, which materially aids the reader in understanding what he is reading about.

The Trial of Henry Miller.

The case of Henry Miller, charged with burglarizing a saloon belonging to L. Wintermantel, came up before the district court to-day. A jury was empaneled without much trouble, and the case went to trial. The defense set up the plea of insanity, and examined several witnesses to substantiate the plea. The lawyers have been firing salvoes of eloquent verbiage at the unfortunate jury all this afternoon. The case will probably be decided some time this evening.

Sentence Postponed.

A large crowd gathered at the court house this morning to hear Ah Chouey sentenced. Among others were some ladies. Their morbid curiosity remained unsatisfied, however, for the sentence was postponed until 10 o'clock next Wednesday.

A Mixed Complaint.

A complaint has been filed in the justice court, which avers "that the plaintiff is the lawful owner of a certain white horse, with two glass eyes about eight years old."

Gave In.

Two of the tramps who refused to work have given in and gone back to work. The other two are still stubborn, and continue to luxuriate in solitary confinement on bread and water.

Passed Through.

R. H. Sutter, general traffic agent of the New York Central railroad, passed through, going west, this morning with a special train of two Pullman coaches.

THE EUREKA FIRE.

The Best Portion of the Town in Ashes!

A Graphic Description of the Disaster!

[Eureka Sentinel, April 20.]

Early Friday afternoon the wind commenced to blow a perfect hurricane from the south, and continued with unabated fury throughout the evening. The terrible results likely to issue from a conflagration were apparently realized by our firemen, and the Rescue Hose carriage was placed at the flag staff, as usually upon such occasions, and the companies held themselves in readiness. This thoughtful proceeding was not followed by any portion of the citizens, whom long freedom from fire had evidently rendered callous to repeated warnings. The fate of Reno was forgotten, and from early eve until midnight everything went merry as a marriage bell. About midnight, while the Sentinel force was busily engaged in their various vocations, Mr. Cassidy turned to the Sentinel's local and remarked that it would be a terrible thing should a fire break out on such a night. The words had scarcely passed his lips ere the sounds of the fire bell rang out above the howling of the wind, and with one accord every man rushed from the office. For a moment it was the general impression that the alarm was a false one, but a second later a bright, lurid flame shot up from the Opera House, and in less time than it requires to record the fact, the building was a mass of seething flames, which the wind soon drove to the east and north, and communicated to the surrounding buildings. A scene of the most indescribable confusion followed. Moch's restaurant was soon in flames, and in twenty minutes the fire had spread down Buel street, and communicated to the residences on Spring street and the business houses on the east side of Main street. So rapid was the progress of the fire that many persons who had retired for the night barely escaped with their lives. Many would not have done so had it not been for the thoughtful consideration of friends, who in many instances dragged them from their beds.

The scene was one never to be forgotten. Above the shrieks of women, the cries of children and the terrible imprecation of men arose the hoarse shouts of the firemen as they gallantly rushed into the very midst of danger and faced death in its most terrible form. Their exertions were unavailing, however, and the fire pursued its relentless course down Buel, Spring and Main streets. The Jackson house, Jack Perry's saloon and the adjoining barber shop escaped as by a miracle, but the remaining portion of the town embraced within the period of two hours a mass of blackened ruins, and the fire only stopped when it reached the end of Main street, at the corner, and on Spring street above Mrs. Dennis', and on Paul street at its terminus. This embraces the best part of the business portion of the town, and many of its private residences.

THE SENTINEL OFFICE.

For the second time in its brief history, the Sentinel passed through the fiery ordeal, but this time with more success than upon the first occasion. Although scarcely twenty minutes elapsed from the breaking out of the fire until it reached the office, nearly all our material had been moved into the stone building in the rear, and the iron door hastily closed. After the fire it was discovered that the frame of the rear door had been burned, and the covering of a job press singed, and that the building escaped appears almost a miracle.

Paxon & Co.'s bank stood as an enduring monument on Main street, while the chimneys of the C. P. brewery and Fisk's restaurant rose like monuments above the devouring flames. One of the most remarkable events was the manner in which the Masonic Hall withstood the flames. For three hours they raged in this building with unabated fury, but finally the iron doors succumbed and a portion of the walls gave way. The vaults of Johnson & Co. proved no protection against the flames, and the contents were totally destroyed.

THE BURNED DISTRICT.

The Eureka bakery, Opera House, Moch's restaurant, the residence of Mrs. Dora Taylor, the hat store, the dressmaking establishment of Mrs. Lockwood, the offices of the Eureka Tunnel company, the Richmond House, Dr. Chablin's residence, Von Winkle's nursery, the Sentinel office, Mrs. Morgan's hurdy house, Justice Cramer's office, the Land Office, the New York bakery, and the houses of good and bad repute on Buel street were all swept away, while on Main street, from Perry's saloon to the foundry, every house and business place was consumed, as was also the residences on Spring street from Mr. Beene's to its terminus, including the Methodist church and parsonage, were consumed. On Paul street the house occupied by Mrs. Wendell, a teacher in our public school, was the first to ignite, and the flames pursued their way unchecked to the mountain side. The whole number of buildings destroyed reached fully three hundred. No more thrilling spectacle could have been when the fire was at its height, and the seething, rearing flames were carried along at almost lightning speed by the hurricane.

A BEAUTIFUL NIGHT.

No more beautiful night was ever seen than when the fire climbed the mountain side and communicated to the sage brush. The mountain looked as though it were dotted with camp fires, and many an old soldier's heart beat with the recollections of a day almost forgotten, as he gazed upon the scene.

THE CAUSALITIES.

As far as learned, no serious results occurred to human life, save the burning of Mr. Moch, of Moch's restaurant. The flames spread so rapidly that no one thought of Mr. Moch, and the first intimation he had of the fire was when the flames reached his room. Death put an end to his suffering last night.

Mr. Frank Alderson was badly burned while trying to save his household goods.

Billy Mulloh, foreman of Rescue No. 1, had his feet badly injured by having the horse carriage run over it.

Joe Winzell was slightly burned trying to save some household goods.

Dick Ryland was struck in the eye by a stream from a hose, and was slightly injured.

Tommy Douglas also suffers from an injured eye, but beyond these cases we learned of no further injuries sustained by any one.

Judge Hubbard's family had a narrow escape, as had several other families on Buel street.

The charred remains of Dixie and Frank, the two inseparable dogs connected with the Sentinel office, were found among the ruins.

A HEROINE.

When the fire first broke out Mrs. A. Skillman, the wife of our junior proprietor, had retired, but on awaking realized the danger she encountered, and immediately prepared to meet it. While friends stood listlessly around, prepared to see their houses swept away, she seized a bucket, and mounting the roof of her house soon saturated it with water, and thereby saved it from igniting. Her example was contagious, and Mr. J. S. Whitton's residence was also saved through her exertions.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.

There is a difference of opinion as to how the fire originated. First reports placed it in the bakery next to the Opera house, but other accounts locate it in the green room of the Opera house. Mr. Bartlett says the hall had not been unlocked since the night of the old folks' concert, and if it did start there it must have been the work of an incendiary. Mr. Dan. O'Rourke, who was one of the first on the ground, is positive in his assertion that the flames first broke out in a building in the rear of the Eureka bakery. How it did originate will in all probability always be a matter of conjecture.

AMUSING SCENES.

Some amusing and ridiculous scenes occurred during the fire. We saw half a dozen men juggling the top of a dressing bureau outside the reach of the flames, utterly oblivious of the fact that the glass had been broken out and the frame was comparatively worthless.

A woman attempted to carry a show case to the top of Nob Hill, and before she reached her destination she had scattered the contents on the road, and had only an empty case for her trouble.

Men and women could be seen on Clark street putting on their nether garments, utterly oblivious of the surrounding crowd.

THE FIREMEN.

From first to last the firemen worked nobly, and added many new laurels to those already nobly earned. The Hooks and Keicks ran their hose through Clark and up Buel, and fought the flames until the intense heat compelled them to retreat, and they were obliged to abandon their hose, which was destroyed. Tommy Douglas held the nozzle until it was so hot that his hands blistered. One thing, however, was painfully apparent, and that is they need a common head or chief.

A nuisance That Needs Abating.

Complaints are being made of dead cats, dogs and other putrid, foul-smelling objects lying in some of the unfrequented alleys of the town. They are very offensive now, and when the weather grows warmer the people in the neighborhood will find it unbearable. People ought to have more respect for health and decency than to throw such leathome disease-breeding objects right under the noses of their neighbors. It is to be hoped that the commissioners will pass an ordinance making it an offense to leave the carcasses of dead animals anywhere inside of the town limits.

Another Business Revival.

J. Prescott has opened out his splendid new stock of dry and millinery goods and placed them on the shelves for inspection. His stock is extensive, of good quality, and especially selected for cheapness. The store door to the postoffice is one of the neatest and most tastefully arranged establishments to be seen anywhere.

Blankets at Wholesale Prices.

L. Abrams, of the White House, has received a letter from the president of the Oregon City woolen mills instructing him to sell blankets to dealers desirous of starting in business again at job rates. This only applies to parties wishing to purchase four pairs and upwards.

Thomas Hitchcock's Condition.

Thomas Hitchcock is very low, and the physicians entertain scarcely a hope of his recovery. His leg has not yet been amputated. He was out of his mind most of last night and today. His father, Rev. A. F. Hitchcock, remains with him.

—Dave McFarland's new Arcade hotel is going up very rapidly. He has fifteen carpenters at work and expects to have it finished by the first of June.

An Impromptu Mill.

A lively fistuff encounter came off in the wash room of the Lake house this morning, in which one of the waiters and a boarder participated. Some difficulty took place in the dining room, resulting in an interchange of salt collars, which was stopped by other parties. The waiter then went into the wash room and waited until his antagonist came out from breakfast. When the unsuspecting boarder came out and was reaching for his hat, he received a vigorous right-hander from the waiter in the corner of the eye. A red hot little mill followed. When the fighting commenced another waiter ran to the door which opens from the bar room to the hall way and locked it, thus preventing anybody from the outside coming in and interfering. Both the pugilists took their medicine gamely until they were separated. The waiter being the heavier and having the go, got the best of the fight. No arrests.

Changeful Weather.

The weather changes during the last few days have been so sudden, so numerous, and so great that all the thermometers in town have been used up in their endeavors to keep up, and they are all on a strike until the weather-forecast promises to reform and confine his freaks to the proper season. Saturday afternoon was spring. Sunday set in that night and it snowed furiously. Sunday morning dawned bleak and wintry, and a driving snow storm followed. Sunday evening spring came again, and to-day has been almost summer-like. The slopes of the Sierra and the Peavine hill are covered with snow, and it looks rather chilly in that direction.

A Cry for Help.

The Eureka fire has entailed a great deal of suffering and destitution. A relief committee has been organized there, and an appeal sent abroad for a little of that help Eureka has so often and so generously extended to others. A dispatch has been received from Governor Kinkead, requesting our relief committee to forward to Eureka what remained of the state appropriation. Unfortunately the appropriation was exhausted, but there remained some supplies and clothing in the hands of the relief committee, which were forwarded.

Reopening of the White House.

Abrahams Bros. & Co. will reopen at the White House on Commercial Row next Saturday. A Judicial Conspiracy Threatened.

No judicial business has come before the justice court for several days. The judge says if somebody don't kick up a disturbance pretty soon he will stake some ruffian to start a hurly house here. The fights such an institution will provoke, he thinks, will pay him good interest on his investment.

Temperance Lecture.

[Lassen Advocate.]

Dr. Coen, of Reno, will address the people of Susanville, at the M. E. this Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Subject: The fruits of the liquor traffic, what it all costs, profit and loss to us as a nation.

To the Good People of Reno.

Having entered the field with the balance to contend for a share of the public patronage, it would perhaps be well at the start to state our claims to the above. I am not a sufferer by the fire, so claim no sympathy on that score. I believe it's the duty of the good people to give preference to old residents, provided all things are equal, but I Brown asks fifty cents for what Smith is willing to sell for twenty-five, on the grounds that he is loser by the fire and wants to get even. The trade will naturally go to the latter. Hence I say we have no claim on the people except on those who wish to economize. If you wish to buy your wife a fine silk dress by all means go to Emrich. If you want a suit of fine clothes go to friend Nathan's or Abrams', but if you want a "goose yoke," rat trap or jack knife go to Yankee Dodge's, where a dollar will buy a basketful. Recollect goods just as square as though sold over a marble counter. A child that can flip out the names of the articles wanted, can buy just as cheap as an expert.

P. S.—Money will be refunded on all goods that do not prove as represented.

She has all the latest novelties in French and American millinery, and can please the most fastidious taste.
